
To Construct Regional Advantage from Innovation Systems
Towards a differentiated regional innovation policy approach. F Tödtling
Regional knowledge economies: markets, clusters and innovation. P Cooke.
Towards a differentiated regional innovation policy approach. F Tödtling
Regional knowledge economies: markets, clusters and innovation. P Cooke.
economic growth trajectories of regions at a similar Cooke (2004) suggests that regional innovation systems are a vital component (2011) Handbook of Regional Innovation and Growth, Cheltenham: Edward. in line with recent academic work on regional innovation and growth (cf. Martin, 2010, Cooke et al., 2011), while the focus on ambitious entrepreneurship and insti-